What is it?

An opportunity for churches to connect with the mission agency that sends their missionaries. As the late Dr. Ralph Winter once said, "...our efforts today in any part of the world will be most effective only if both of these two structures (the church and the agency) are fully and properly involved and supportive of each other." This is a time we set aside to build relationships, collaborate ideas, and find solutions that will enhance our work with missionaries around the world.

Who should attend?

Pastors, mission pastors, elders, mission committee members, and other church leaders from churches that support Avant missionaries.

What to expect?

1. Network with Avant and church leaders to collaborate about sending missionaries.
2. Seek vision from the Lord on ways to cultivate your church's heart for missions and the Great Commission.
3. Learn from peers, gather new ideas and sharpen tools for encouraging your people toward missions.
